

Youth Admission

Nampa Idaho Free Press, April 1, 1953 (Front Page)

Youth Admits Killing Uncle

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Donald Keeler, 16, a junior at Kendrick, Idaho, high school, admitted to Nez Perce county officers late Tuesday night that he shot and killed his uncle, Louis Conrad, 62, during a holdup of a service station three miles east of Lewiston March 20. Conrad's body, pierced by two bullets, was found lying inside the station about three hours after his death by his wife.

An anonymous tip that the curly-headed lad had been "spending too much money" led to his arrest Tuesday morning. The confession came at about 11 p. m. Tuesday.

Keeler told Deputy Sheriffs Clarence and Hazel Kyle that he walked to the station, armed with a .38 calibre pistol on the night of March 20 and saw Conrad standing inside.

Keeler said he shot once through the window, hitting Conrad in the chest. Conrad fell to the floor. Keeler said he walked into the station and found his uncle still alive.

He quoted Conrad as saying "Oh no" and he raised his left arm. Keeler then shot again, the bullet piercing Conrad's heart.

The youth told the officers he snatched $140 from the till and fled to his car, parked nearby.

Keeler, whose divorced parents live in California, had been living with a family at Kendrick whom officers refused to identify. They also declined to identify the tipster.

Donald Keeler, 16, a junior at Kendrick, Idaho, high school, admitted to Nez Perce county officers late Tuesday night that he shot and killed his uncle, Louis Conrad, 62, during a holdup of a service station three miles east of Lewiston March 20.

Conrad's body, pierced by two bullets, was found lying inside the station about three hours after his death by his wife.

An anonymous tip that the curly-headed lad had been "spending too much money" led to his arrest Tuesday morning. The confession came at about 11 p.m. Tuesday.

Keeler told Deputy Sheriffs Clarence and Hazel Kyle that he walked to the station, armed with a .38 calibre pistol on the night of March 20 and saw Conrad standing inside.

Keeler said he shot once through the window, hitting Conrad in the chest. Conrad fell to the floor. Keeler said he walked into the station and found his uncle still alive.

He quoted Conrad as saying, "Oh no" and he raised his left arm. Keeler then shot again, the bullet piercing Conrad's heart.

The youth told the officers he snatched $140 from the till and fled to his car parked nearby.

Keeler, whose divorced parents live in California, had been living with a family in Kendrick whom officers refused to identify. They also declined to identify the tipster.